Yorwaste Recycling workers come to rescue after car keys fall into skip

A PAIR of big-hearted Yorwaste workers proved they were far from "rubbish" after coming to the aid of a woman who accidentally threw her car keys into a skip.

Penny Bevan, 36, was left in a panic after the keys fell into the landfill skip at Seamer Carr Household Waste and Recycling Centre while she was emptying her rubbish there.

But after reporting it to two members of staff – Darren White and Paul Sellers – they took the skip away, emptied it and spent half an hour searching through the rubbish until they found them.

Mrs Bevan, of Pinewood Drive, said: "I was emptying stuff when I suddenly heard this 'clink' and realised straight away that my keys had fallen in. "I just thought to myself 'oh no', but as soon as I told the two gentlemen what had happened they could not help me enough. They sifted through the skip and then when they couldn't find them they took it away and emptied it."

Mrs Bevan, who has worked for Scarborough Council as a Customer First advisor for two years, added: "I am so grateful for their help. I feel there is enough negative news about them and it's nice to hear something positive for a change. They went over and above the call of duty for me."

Household waste site attendant Mr White said: "As soon as I got the OK from management I started sifting through the rubbish. It must have taken the best part of 30 minutes. "There have been quite a few instances where we have searched for people's belongings, such as rings, which they have lost in the paper skips. But it is a rarity for us to actually find them."

Site manager Mr Sellers said: "We were happy to help Mrs Bevan. Darren did really well – I didn't think he was ever going to find them."
